This begins the process of learning to control the sin left in our mortality until Christ comes for us.

Everyone born into the world is born under the law of God and its demand for perfection.

Those who believe Christ bore the penalty of our sin by His death and was raised again for our justification will not be judged by the law.

And unless we are saved, we will be judged by the law.

The Bible states that there are only two ways of life: “under law” and “under grace.”

Because of our fallen nature, the law of God actually provokes us to sin against God.

This means we are born again as new creatures and instead of the law provoking us to sin, it provokes us to righteousness instead.

But now a righteousness apart from the law is offered to us.
